

Tate Britain displays British art from 1500 to today. Yes, it's a museum, but it's also like a big living room. All those works of art are yours.

The I HAVEN'T BEEN HERE FOR AGES Collection

No way it's you! Great to see you – how are you doing? When was the last time? It can't be since school can it? You look good...

So what's new? Well we've just got The Blue Rigi, Sunrise by JMW Turner after a national fundraising campaign. Result!

Did you hear about the The Cholmondeley Ladies? They married on the same day and gave birth on the same day... Were they twins or something?

This room is brand new. If you think all landscapes look like The Blue Rigi, Sunrise then you haven't been to an art gallery for a very long time. Ivon Hitchens abandoned the traditional 'view' of nature and instead tried to 'connect' with the landscape. Check out the bridge and the reflections of trees in the water.

The Lady of Shalott is doing fine thanks. OK, she is drifting in a boat after being punished for glimpsing the handsome Lancelot and is going to meet her end before she makes her destination, but apart from that she is doing fine.

Now

Did you know that the Art Now Space has moved? This room shows a variety of new art from the UK and has up to five exhibitions a year but not all at the same time, the room might burst. Art's got a lot more contemporary since you were last here.

We need to catch up more often. Hope to see you around in the I Come Here All the Time Collection. Come back soon.
