

Tate Britain displays British art from 1500 to today. Yes, it's a museum, but it's also like a big living room. All those works of art are yours.

Create your own Collection.

Create your own Collection online at www.tate.org.uk/britain

Tate Britain
Millbank
London SW1P 4RG

Admission free
Tickets and Membership
020 7887 8888

Visit www.tate.org.uk

 Pimlico  Millbank Pier

Opening hours 10.00–17.50 daily
Late opening first Friday of each month until 21.00

Picture credits:

Philip Hermogenes Calderon Broken Vows

John Martin The Last Judgement

John William Waterhouse
The Lady of Shalott

Joseph Highmore from Four Scenes from Samuel Richardson's 'Pamela' I: Mr B. Finds Pamela Writing

JMW Turner The Blue Rigi, Sunrise

The I'VE JUST SPLIT UP Collection

BP British Art Displays 1500–2007

Supported by BP

BRITAIN

TATE

The I'VE JUST SPLIT UP Collection

We know how it feels. You don't even want to wake up in the mornings. That's just how this woman feels after discovering her lover flirting with someone else. But think about it, if other people have gone through that and survived, maybe it's not the end of the world for you.

room
13

To put things into perspective, take a look at The Last Judgement by John Martin. Now that is the end of the world. Literally.

room
9

Now you need to get rid of any melancholic trace. Get as sad as you can with The Lady of Shalott by John William Waterhouse. Go on, make yourself feel really gloomy, get it all out.

room
15

Now it's time to start liberating yourself. When you get home take out all those love letters your wrote to each other along with Valentine's and birthday cards and put it all together in one place. Stand, look at it for one last time, take a deep breath and move on.

room
4

You're on the mend and ready for a Turner now. Look at The Blue Rigi, Sunrise. The sunrise represents the idea of a new beginning for you. For every dark night there is a bright morning. That means there's still hope in the world. Everything will soon be OK.

room
Clare
Gallery

