

The changing nature of work shortlisted for the Turner Prize

This diagram uses a new set of categories to define different types of works of art. Terms such as painting, sculpture, installation and so on have become increasingly ambiguous, and are replaced here by new categories that can accommodate any work of art. Note the sudden appearance in 1994 of film and video in the Turner Prize exhibition (ie 2-dimensional with movement).

